developing concepts in the classroom. The workshop is especially designed for teachers with little or no background in economics.

Room and board scholarships are being offered through Purdue's Economic Education Projects unit, and in addition, elementary teach-in the mountainous area, working with malnourished children and adults, an experience which she terms as "very rewarding."

Miss Richey is a member of the American Dental Hygienist Association and attends Trinity Church of the Nazarene.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS BRING NIXON REPLY — In a joint writing-art project, the 26 first graders in Christine Davis' class at Ward School each sent President Richard Nixon an original birthday greeting last month. And he in turn replied in a personalized letter to the class thanking them for the "kind birthday messages which helped make January 9 especially enjoyable." The letter appears to bear an original penned signature from the President (it's been studied under a magnifying glass by numerous individuals), and the letter is written in language easily understandable by first graders. A unit of study on the Presidents, the White House and the American eagle preceded the project. Miss Davis is shown displaying the President's letter to some of the students who have made replicas of their original greetings to Mr. Nixon. The students are, left to right, Lisa Nestor, Shanita Green, Allan Ladowski and Brian Eldridge.
